1. The headquarters of a Bulgarian border guard unit was located in Novo Khodzovo village, approximately 300 meters from the Greek border. The offices and barracks of the 60-man detachment were in a single building, 18 x 8 meters in size, which was situated on the eastern edge of the village.
2. The headquarters of another border guard unit was located in Petrovo village. The offices and the 150-man unit occupied four barracks west of the village.
3. A 6-man Militia unit was stationed in Katuntsi village.
4. There was a fence two meters high strung along the border near Novo Khodzovo. The fence consisted of wooden posts at $3\frac{1}{2}$ meter intervals and 20 strands of barbed wire extending for an unspecified distance.
